Our Dear Friends,

About 9.00 a.m., in the morning of February 17th, 1977 Archbishop Janani Luwum of Uganda was murdered on the orders of President Idi Amin.

That year was the beginning of the centenary year of the Church in Uganda. In 1877 the first two missionaries, men from England, landed at Entebbe welcomed by the King of Uganda with drum salutes.

In 1885 the first Bishop to be martyred in Uganda was Bishop Hannington sent by the Church of England. Earlier that same year, 1885, the King had ordered the arrest of three Christian boys. The eldest was fifteen and the youngest 11 years of age. He had them burnt to death in an effort to stamp out Christianity. There is a memorial near Kampala where these youngsters are remembered as the first Christian martyrs of Uganda.

By 1887, the end of the first decade of the Uganda Church, hundreds had died. There were martyrs out of every village that had believers. They were only beginners, they knew little theology, and some could barely read, but they had fallen in love with Jesus Christ. Life had taken on a completely new meaning. The value of living and of living eternally had been discovered. They were not hugging their lives but ready to give them for Jesus.

During those dangerous days, there was an immediate and steady increase in the number of those embracing Christ. They had to come secretly, in the dead of the night, to the missionaries, but they came begging for baptism.

Many of us in our parish know Thelma Burns and of her work in Uganda. She is back in this country again until the middle of this month for a series of meetings together with Ugandan Church Leaders; amongst them The Right Rev. Yoma Okoth who is the present Archbishop of Uganda. Thelma made arrangements for us to meet him over a meal and he was saying that, like his predecessor, Janani, he has to be very careful what he says; in spite of there being a new president.

He was explaining to us the great work the Church in Uganda is undertaking at the moment; caring for many orphans. These children have lost their parents through continual civil unrest and disease. He is appealing for people in this country to help finance their education, £30 per year for each child. He has, in addition to his own family, thirteen of those orphans in his home, the youngest of whom is 6 years of age.

Anyone wanting to know how to share in this work by sponsoring a child should let us know and we will put you in touch with Thelma.

James, Catherine, Mark and Rebekah.
